Home hints

WHEELBARROW SUBSTITUTE — Last summer our school barrow broke and as I began gardening I really missed it. The bags of fertilizer were too heavy! I had also used my wheelbarrow for other things that were large or cumbersome.

My husband came up with a brainstorm. Now we use my son's wagon. It rounds or handy and serves the same purpose. Diana L. Albany N.Y.

CAMPING TIP — Our family goes camping quite frequently and there is one of our best camping hints.

Washing dishes isn't one of my favorite chores at home and washing them while camping is even less fun. To make a little easier, I coat the bottom of all pots and pans with a coat of soap before placing them over the fire. When it comes time to wash them the black soot is easy to wash off.

Camping is so much fun when simple chores are made easier. Nancy D. Phoenix, Md.

COVERED DISH DINNER — Our church has several covered-dish dinners a month and I usually take cakes to these functions. If there were cakes left over, I would put the my cake pan back and let several weeks to some cases.

My husband went to the local hardware store and bought a few 12 inch square floor tiles and brought them home. I covered a tile with aluminum foil placed the cake on it and covered it with waxed paper.

It made a wonderful cake plate, and if I don't get it back quickly or at all, it doesn't matter. It sure saved me a lot of effort and anxiety since my good pans may home with me. Helen C. Louisville Ky.

Entertainment Extra by Evelyn

Q I am curious about Tina Turner. Is it true that she still remains on a close and friendly basis with her ex-husband Ike? Since I split it was reported that Tina had been busy around and had only charge to her problems to support herself. Today she is more independent than ever, worldwide, and thanks her being to Former Tina is living in China and she isn't getting them on the Beach lately or even in concert tour or anyone charges.

Q Please settle a bet between myself and a co-worker. Exactly how long have Nancy and Ronald Reagan been married? Opal W

A. The Reagans recently celebrated their 36th wedding anniversary at Beverly Hills, California.

Q How many husbands has actress Ali Macgraw had and does she plan on remarrying in the near future? Brenda S.

A. Ali has been married twice to producer Robert Evans and the late Senator Steve McQueen. Currently there are no immediate plans of any wedding bells for the actress who has been seen in the past with actor Richard Gere, who is younger than the 51 year old actress.

Q What year did Bette Davis and actor Gary Merrill divorce? Also, how long have Nancy and Ronald Reagan been married? Opal W

A. Bette and Gary divorced in 1950 and did not speak for over 25 years until 1985. It seems they were infatuated over Bette's daughter B.D. Hyman and her book "My Mother's Keeper" which trashed Bette. In fact Merrill served notable headwaters urging strangers not to buy the biography. Bette Davis' actress-friend Ashley reportedly burning down Tara's dinner invitation. After finding Jack in her mother's bedroom, Victoria vowed not to have anything more to do with him even if he is Mamaw's new husband. Wait To See: Jack and Victor have a fun to face confrontation and Paul makes a startling discovery about Cassandra.

Q Is the recent Oscar telecast, I saw a piece where Bugs Bunny was giving out an award and explaining about animation. Well, my question is who exactly is doing the voice of Bugs since the famous voice behind the character Mel Blanc passed away? Anthony D.

A. Mel's son, Noel, is now behind the voice of Bugs Daffy Duck and other famous animated characters.

Q Is it true that Malcolm Forbes was writing an autobiography at the time of his death? Ira B

A. Mal-olm does indeed have a book coming out any day now but it is not his autobiography. Instead the book is titled "What Happened to The Kids" and the book chronicles the lives of children of the rich and famous throughout history.

DEAR DEX
by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX:
I'm 24 years old, black, and my disability. My husband is white and 46 years old, also retired. What I want to know from you is: we have got in for a senior citizens apartment, and we have been on the list at one place for over three years now. So we went back to the office and asked about the apartment. The lady in the office said no that the papers we filled out were nowhere to be found and she herself was not at the office. We then had to fill out another application, but when we were leaving, we saw a woman moving in. We asked her how long she had to wait to get in the building. She said she waited two years, three months. If the application were misplaced, as we were told, how did that lady get her apartment? I think this place is against us because of our mixed marriage. We need a place to live to meet our income. I will never be able to hold down a job. My husband had to retire, but he is now working part-time. What can we do?

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE:
I needed some help on this one so I consulted my esteemed colleague Matilda Charles, who writes the syndicated column, "Senior Service Line." She advised me that you should call 1-800-795-8820 for help. This number is a senior citizens' information and referral office. If they can't help you directly, they can let you know where you can turn. Not only will you be able to get advice about housing, but you should also receive some guidance concerning the discrimination issue.

For the rest of my readers, please put this phone number in your directories. You never know when it might come in handy for yourself or for someone in your family.

Send letters to Dex c/o King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

DEAR DIANE
by Diane Van Arsdale

DEAR DIANE:
I've been married for eight years now, and I've basically had a good marriage. We have one child together, but in the last six months, we are fighting constantly, and he rarely ever stays home at nights. I've put up with it because of the child, but it's getting the best of me now. I don't know which way to turn. I've asked him to go to a marriage counselor, and he has refused. So I went to the marriage counselor, and have been going steadily for three months. So far, neither the counselor nor I have found an answer to this problem. I love my husband in some ways and want the marriage to work for us, and for the sake of our son. I think he's having an affair, and some times it doesn't matter to me. At other times, it drives me crazy. I have been advised by friends and family that I should file for divorce and get this crazy situation over with and get on with my life. What would you suggest?

UNCERTAIN

DEAR UNCERTAIN:
I think you're being premature when you speak about divorce. While your husband's behavior certainly is indicative of problems in the marriage, I feel these things can be addressed and straightened out, with time and patience, and a lot of understanding on your part.

First you have to get your husband to open up to you. Sit him down and let him know you insist upon talking. If he becomes hostile or reticent lay it on the line. Let him know that this is such a serious matter you have actually considered filing for divorce. I think this should sufficiently grab his attention and get him to listen to you. Ask him point blank if he wants the marriage to continue. If he does and I suspect so, despite what's going on, tell him he will have to make the effort to go to counseling to discuss what's wrong and how to work it out. Once that's accomplished, I believe you'll be on the right track toward solving this.
